THE HUNTERS.

In the bright October morning
From the castle, past the drawbridge,
Flowed the hunters' merry tide.

Steeds are neighing, gallants glittering,
Gay, her smiling lord to greet,
From her mullioned chamber casement
Smiles the Duchess Marguerite.

From Vienna by the Danube
Here she came, a bride in spring
Now the autumn crisps the forest,
Hunters gather, bugles ring.

Hark! the game's on foot; they scatter;
Down the forest ridings lone,
Furious, single horsemen gallop—
Hark! a shout—a crash—a groan!

Pale and breathless came the hunters;
On the turf, dead, lies the boar;
But the duke lies stretched beside him,
Senseless, weltering in his gore.

In the dull October evening,
Down the leaf-strewn forest road,
To the castle, near the drawbridge,
Came the hunters with their load.

In the hall, with sconces blazing,
Ladies waiting around her seat
Clothed in smiles, beneath the dias
Sat the Duchess Marguerite.

Hark! below, the gates unbarring,
Tramp of men and quick commands—
"'Tis my lord come back from hunting!"
And the duchess claps her hands.

Slow and tired came the hunters,
Stopped in darkness in the court—
Ho! this way, ye laggard hunters!
To the hall! What sport? what sport?"

Slow they entered with their master;
In the hall they laid him down;
On his coat were leaves and blood stains,
On his brow an angry frown.

Dead her princely, youthful husband
Lay before his youthful wife;
Bloody, 'neath the flaring sconces;
And the sight froze all her life.

In Vienna by the Danube
Kings hold revel, gallants meet;
Gay, of old, amid the gayest
Was the Duchess Marguerite.

In Vienna by the Danube
Feast and dance her youth beguiled;
Till that hour she never sorrowed,
But from then she never smiled.

WET AND DRY HEAT.—Some of our citizens are a good deal exercised over the apparent discrepancy between the state of the thermometer and their feelings. They have observed that when the mercury climbs highest in the tube they do not always feel the heat most; that when the temperature, according to the thermometer, is at 80 or 85 degrees they sometimes feel much more uncomfortable from the heat than when 10 degrees higher is indicated by the mercury. The fact is the thermometer only registers the temperature of the atmosphere. It does not show the effect of the wind, which often tempers the intense heat; neither does it indicate the humidity of the air, which may be comparatively cool, yet so charged with moisture that it seems to make everything moist and causes us to say the weather is "sticky." The thermometer does not indicate what the feelings of human beings are, or ought to be, according to the temperature—except in very wide ranges of the mercury—but it shows simply the air's heat unaffected by the influences of wind or water. After all, each man is a thermometer to himself, and no general indicator can guide him as to his condition. There are influences within himself—clothing, food and habits of life—that act upon his body far more powerfully than extraneous ones, and the only way to keep comfortable in warm weather is to consider the things which act directly upon each person and so change or temper them according to hygienic laws as may most conduce health. There is no surer way of feeling uncomfortable in summer than to be constantly examining the thermometer and thus becoming the slave of its caprices.—Baltimore News.

Hans Growyost, a worthy German farmer, who has been a life-long resident of Berks county, has a shrewish wife, who has long rendered his life anything but a couch of roses. One day not long ago she, in a fit of pique, picked up her duds and left him, vowing never to come back. The news went around among the neighbors—you know how intelligence of all kinds does travel in the country—and at night several of them, of whom I was one, went to condole with Hans. He sat on his front stoop puffing away at his pipe. "Hans," I remarked, "I pity you." "My boy," replied the honest Dutchman, as he disturbedly knocked out the ashes of his pipe, "you vas right. She has shust come back!"—Chester, Penn., Democrat.

WORTH KNOWING.—Among the Acts passed by the last Legislature is the following: Any officer of town, village, city, county or State, who shall be intoxicated while in the discharge of the duties of his office, or by reason of intoxication is disqualified for the discharge of or neglects his duties, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction of such misdemeanor shall forfeit his office; and in such case the vacancy occasioned thereby shall be filled in the same manner as if such officer had filed his resignation in the proper office, and it had been accepted by the proper authority, provided such acceptance shall have been necessary to make the office vacant.

"Do you see that spring over there?" said a settler in Arkansas to a stranger. "Well, that's an iron spring, that is; and it's so mighty powerful that the farmer's horses about here that drink the water of it never have to be shod. The shoes just grow on their feet nat'ally."

Sores.

Some time ago, a little child had a pimple on its breast, which became a little sore; an amateur doctor advised a "simple" remedy to be applied to it, which was done; neither the advice nor the remedy cost anything, except the child's life in 48 hours.

A gentleman had a small running sore on the top of his foot; he was anxious to have it "cured up." We advised him to keep it running, but that was troublesome, and it was healed up. In a short time a cold set in, and he died of consumption at the end of a year.

The son of a merchant wanted to reduce a swelling in the side, which began to "run;" general remedies were proposed, with advice to let the "sore" alone. This did not suit his views, so he had it healed up, and died of consumption within two years.

A lady had a sore on the leg; it interfered with her walking. She was impatient to have it "cured up," but was advised as to the consequences, but this was disregarded. The sore was healed up, and she died of consumption.

A lady, aged 70, had a sore leg, and was extremely anxious to have it healed up. She was advised, by all means, to make no application to it, but merely to keep it under control by general remedies. An old woman was applied to, and with various salves a wonderful "cure" was the result. Within a few weeks the lady took dinner in usual health, and died in an hour.

A lady, aged 66, had a long-continued, violent and painful cough. A "running" took place under the toe nail; she feared mortification, and was anxious to have it healed up. She was told that it was the best thing that could have happened to her, inasmuch as it would probably cure her cough and add years to her life; while, by improving the general health, the running might slowly dry up of itself, all of which proved to be so, and now, in her 74th year, she has better health than half our women at 40.

Our object in stating these facts, which have occurred in our own experience, within a comparatively short time, is to impress upon the reader's mind the signal danger of tampering with sores, especially such as are sometimes called "old sores," for they are the outlet to disease, and if injudiciously closed, what they would have discharged will be thrown in upon more vital internal organs; causing apoplexy, consumption or fatal congestions as certainly as the boiler of a locomotive will be shivered to atoms if the fire is continued and all escape of steam is prevented. In all cases of old sores, apply to a physician of age and experience. If that is not practicable, the safest and best plan is first, to diminish the amount of food eaten each day one-half and keep the parts in a clean condition by washing them twice a day in soft, milk-warm water until relief is given. —Hall's Journal of Health.

AFGHAN ETIQUETTE.—Afghan etiquette forbids paying visits in the off hand and unceremonious way usual in Europe, and it is customary, and also convenient in many ways, to send at least a few hours' notice of the intention to call upon an Afghan. The visitor is received at the door by some confidential retainer, and conducted through an open courtyard to the foot of a rude, winding staircase, which leads first to an uncovered landing, and thence to the ordinary reception-room or balcony of the proprietor. Here he is received by the host in person, and conducted with every mark of courtesy and respect to a small row of chairs, the use of which articles of furniture seems to be general in good society in Cabul, and to have quite superseded the carpets and felts which satisfied an older generation.

After a few words of welcome and inquiries in a set formula after health on both sides, a tray of fruits usually appears and is placed upon the carpet at the foot of the visitors. The fruits are followed by a tea tray, and a cup of highly sweetened green tea, without milk, is placed before the visitor. The conversation is then carried on with more or less spirit on the ordinary topics of the day, and here, if the visit is merely a formal one, the interview comes to an end and the visitor is conducted to the door with the same formality and courtesy with which he was received. It is not, however, unusual for the host to ask if the attendants, who have been seated at a respective distance all this time, shall withdraw in view to the introduction of more confidential topics. Those who look for more than the mere interchange of civilities at these meetings will gladly accede to this proposal, and it is then that the conversation often become deeply important and interesting.—Afghan Correspondence London Times.

Germany spends more money per capita for school education than either England, Austria, Hungary, France, Spain, Italy or Russia. Her expenditure is about seventy cents a head of the population; England's about forty-four cents; Austria-Hungary's about forty cents; France's about thirty-six; Spain's about thirty-two cents; Italy's about twenty cents, and Russia's about six cents.

The greyhound runs by eyesight only, and this we observe to be a fact. The carrier pigeon flies his [illegible] miles homeward by eyesight—namely, from point to point of objects which he has marked; but this is only our conjecture. The fierce dragon-fly, with 12,000 lenses in his eye, darts from angle to angle with the rapidity of a flashing sword, and as rapidly darts back, not turning in the air, but with a clash reversing action of his four wings, and instantaneously calculating the distance of the objects or he would dash himself to pieces. But in what conformation of the eye does this consist? No one can answer.

A cloud of 10,000 gnats dance up and down in the sun, the minutest interval between them, yet no one knocks another headlong upon the grass, or breaks a leg or wing, long and delicate as these are. Suddenly, amidst your admiration of this matchless dance, a peculiarly high-shouldered, vicious gnat, with long pendent nose, darts out of the rising and falling cloud, and, settling on your cheek, inserts a poisonous sting. What possessed the little wretch to do this? Did he smell your blood in the mazy dance? No one knows.

A carriage comes suddenly upon a flock of geese, on a narrow road, and drives straight through the middle of them. A goose was never yet fairly run over, nor a duck. They are under the very wheels and yet somehow they contrive to flap and paddle safely off. Habitually stupid, heavy and indolent, they are nevertheless equal to any emergency.

Why does the lonely woodpecker, when he descends his tree and goes to drink, stop several times on his way, listen and look round, before he takes his draught? No one knows. How is it that the species of ant, which is taken in battle by other ants to be made slaves, should be the black, or negro ant? No one knows.

The power of judging actual danger, and the free and easy boldness which results from it, are by no means [illegible]. Many birds seem to have a most correct notion of a gun's range, and while scrupulously careful to keep beyond it, confine their care to this caution, though the [illegible] obvious resource would be to fly right away out of sight and hearing, which they do not choose to do. And they sometimes appear to make even an ostentatious use of their power, fairly putting their wit and cleverness in antagonism to that of man, for the benefit of their fellows. We lately read an account, by a naturalist in Brazil, of an expedition he made to one of the Amazons to shoot spoon-bills, [illegible] and other of the magnificent grallatorial birds, which were most abundant there. His design was completely baffled, however, by a wretched little sandpiper that preceded him, continually uttering his tell-tale cry, which aroused all the birds within hearing. Throughout the day did this individual bird continue his self-imposed duty of sentinel to others, effectually preventing the approach of the fowler to the game, and yet managing to keep out of the range of his gun.

Among the stories which are told at St. Petersburg of the attempts made by the Nihilists to penetrate into the Winter Palace is the following: Gen. Gourko, when Governor of St. Petersburg, had the right of entering at any time into the Emperor's room without being announced. Once, however, the doorkeeper, noticing something unusual about his appearance, stopped him, saying that it would be necessary to inform the Emperor of his arrival. The General objected at first, but finding that the doorkeeper only grew more suspicious, ultimately agreed to his being announced. The doorkeeper then told the Emperor of his doubts; upon which the latter went to a writing table in his room, which was connected by telegraph with Gen. Gourko's residence, and telegraphed, "Where is Gourko?" "At home," was the reply. This, of course, settled the point; the false Gourko was at once arrested, and turned out to be a member of the Revolutionary Committee.

A Danbury young man attended one of the lady clerks in a fancy goods store, at a party a few evenings ago. A day or two after he went into the store and inquired of her if she had "gentlemen's gloves." She answered, "Yes." "I want to get a pair," he said. "Whom are they for?" she asked, looking him straight in the eyes. "Why—for—me," he gasped, turning scarlet under the insinuation in her inquiry.

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES A. GARFIELD,
Of Ohio.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
CHESTER A. ARTHUR,
Of New York.

Election Tuesday, November 2, 1880.

THAT COMPROMISE.

Under the caption "To the Bodie Chronicle," the Standard of Monday last says:

"The Bodie Chronicle says that the Standard tried to compromise with the Democrats by giving them the State Senator, while the Republicans would be satisfied with the Assemblyman." It is the first time the proprietor of the Standard ever heard of any such proposition, but, considering the management of the paper at that time—the proprietor being absent during nearly the whole campaign—it would not surprise him to learn that such might have been the case. If so, we wish Brother Folger would furnish the evidence that any one connected with the Standard, as editor or manager, did make any such proposition. The proprietor recollects well of having written several pretty strong articles in favor of Dr. Chester P. Rowell, a personal friend, and was warmly thanked by him therefor. If the Chronicle will refer to our files it will find that all of the numerous letters written by the proprietor of this paper, or by his dictation, while in San Francisco, are about as strongly Republican as could be desired. We received in person the warmest thanks and congratulations from all the members of the State Central Committee, as well as from Mr. Pacheco, elected to Congress, and Mr. Fred Campbell, elected as State Superintendent of schools, for our strong support." There were queer "goings on" with the editor and business manager about that time, and it may be that such a proposition was made by one or both of them.

It is unnecessary for us to refer to the files of the Standard for evidence to sustain our indictment against that paper. The proprietor of the Standard has a very short memory, if he forgets that he was present at the Republican Club meeting when Justice Peterson introduced the "compromise" resolutions—for the club to appoint a committee to confer with the Democracy with a view of a coalition against the Workingmen—the Democrats to gobble up the Senators, the Republicans to be satisfied with the Assemblyman. We believe that Justice Peterson, who introduced it, will bear us out in the assertion that the proprietor, manager, and editor of the Standard were all present at the meeting, and rushed it through. At a subsequent meeting the resolution was rescinded by the members of the club who believed that the Republicans should stand by their colors and not surrender before a gun was fired. At that meeting the Standard staff were all present and opposed the adoption of a resolution to rescind the coalition proposition. Not only did the Standard staff—proprietor, manager and editor, the latter now editor of the Free Press—favor coalition with the Democracy but that paper teemed with editorials favoring that idea, and had its wishes been consulted by the stalwart Republicans of Bodie we would now be represented by a Democratic State Senator, who would vote next Winter for a Democratic United States Senator. The weekly CHRONICLE was the one paper here to stand up for the true blue nominations. The News, on behalf of the Democracy, half-way favored, and half-way opposed, coalition—a sort of New York Herald, on an exceedingly small scale, one thing to-day and something else to-morrow, and the CHRONICLE and its friends had to make the fight without the aid of the Standard, and Dr. Chester Rowell is under no obligations to that paper for the position he now fills.

THE MINERALOGICAL CABINETS.—Assemblyman Wasson of Mono county was in the city yesterday. He leaves for Bodie today. Ever since the adjournment of the Legislature he has been constantly assisting State Mineralogist Hanks at San Francisco in arranging the museum of his office, and in getting details of the new law under which Mr. Hanks holds office into working order. He says the museum is already very attractive. The old State Geological Society has contributed its collections of minerals, and Mr. Hanks has secured also the cabinets exhibited at the Paris Exposition. He prophecies that the work of the New office will be very useful to the State, and says that all over the country the people are aiding Mr. Hanks in his work.—Sacramento Record, 23d.

The books of the United States Treasury show that the savings banks of Massachusetts and New York and William H. Vanderbilt own one eighth the entire bonded debt of the United States and, so far as can be ascertained, more than one-half of the National debt, all of which is non-taxable, is held by New York and New England capitalists.

San Jose Mercury: The man doesn't live who can beat Garfield, and the more thoughtful and clear-headed members of the Democratic party know it a great deal better than they know their prayers.

The old passenger depot at the foot of J street, Sacramento has been pulled down to make room for the new two-story depot for the freight offices, etc.

Oakland has a population of 31,896, as near as can be ascertained at present.

Democratic Nominees.

The Democratic ticket for the Presidential campaign was placed before the people on Thursday last, and the announcement that Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock was the nomination for President surprised the country, as it was thought that the "unterrified" would stand by the much abused standard bearer, Tilden, and try to place him next March where, they say, he was entitled to be now. The nomination of Hancock was probably the best the Convention could do to harmonise the factions of that once dominant party. That Hancock is a good man and an able General, all will admit, but it cannot be denied that a statesman should have been selected for such an exalted position. The nomination of a military man places the party that had so much to say in opposition to "military despotism," as it has been pleased to term it, in an embarrassing position, and compels it to partake of an unlimited diet of "crow"—a dish that must be more than ordinary unpalatable under the circumstances. The nomination of Governor English is a respectable one, and, for statesmanship, it would have been better had he been placed at the head. The tickets are in the field and both headed by Generals, but the Republicans have not only that—they have an able statesman. We hope the campaign will be conducted on a respectable basis, and "mud slinging" be dispensed with.

SPIKED.—The nomination of General Hancock has spiked the guns of the Democratic papers that have been howling about military men for President.

On Tuesday evening at Sacramento a five-year-old son of Governor Perkins was severely but not seriously burned by the explosion of a can of coal oil.

Chinamen in Napa, from 30 to 40 years old, gives their ages to the census-takers as 18 to 20, thinking that they will thus evade the collection of poll-tax.

The Sunday Capital, a Democratic paper published at Washington, and edited by Don Piatt, who is not in the habit of speaking well of Republicans, says: General Garfield, personally considered, is singularly pure and upright. He is one of the few men in public life who can look his beautiful little wife and lovely children in the face without shame. We say this advisedly, for we have known General Garfield intimately all his public life, and we can advise the mud machines, called partisan papers, that attempts at blackmailing Garfield's character will be signal failures and will be met by protests from such eminent Democrats as the Hon. Jeremiah Black, Allen G. Thurman and Justice Field, who have already put themselves on record in his behalf."

BODIE, JUNE 26, 1880.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.—The Democracy held a ratification meeting in front of the Bodie Bank last evening. There was a good attendance, a large number of Republicans being attracted by the music and having a desire to see the Democracy eat "crow." The meeting was called to order by W. C. Love, Chairman of the County Committee, who in his address forgot his "piece," but truthfully told his hearers that the next President would be "John" Garfield. He evidently meant John Hancock. Three times during his speech he referred to Garfield as the coming President, and had to be corrected by some Democratic brother, until at last he owned up that he "had Garfield on the brain" and subsided. R. P. Fouke was elected President of the meeting, and a long list of Vice Presidents.

General Kittrell opened the ball and spoke at great length, slinging mud profusely at President Hayes, Garfield, and the Republican party generally, now and then letting up to throw in a little sentiment about the rills and hills of the Sunny South.

The speaker indulged in more "mud" slinging than we have heard for sometime, and its omission from his address would have been more creditable to him as a gentleman and Democrat. He was followed by Major Hetzel and Colonels T. P. Ryan and Jackson—the Democrats are all military men now. Major Hetzel gave Hancock's pedigree, and Col. Jackson's remarks were brief, but he promised to talk at length some time before election. Col. Ryan delivered an excellent speech, and abstained from everything in the "mud slinging" line. His remarks were well received. The meeting was a very tame one, there being no enthusiasm in the crowd, but perhaps they will get warmed up in the "sweet by and by."

THE FOURTH.—The Committee of Arrangements on the Fourth of July are doing nobly in perfecting their work. They have been liberally seconded by our citizens, who have donated a liberal sum to defray the necessary expenses incidental to a fine display and proper celebration of the "Day we celebrote." Yesterday the Committee of ladies having charge of the Car of State were out selecting the children, or young ladies, to represent the several States of our Union. The Committee has selected the following officers of the Day:

Grand Marshal—Captain I. G. Messic.

President of the Day—Hon. Marcus P. Wiggin.

Orator—Gen. John R. Kittrell.

Poet—Alfred Graham.

Reader of the Declaration of Independence—Alexander Hunter.

Reader of Drake's address to the American Flag—W. A. Cuddy.

In the evening their will be a display of fireworks.

BELVIDERE WORKS.—The new hoisting works of the Belvidere Company are about completed, and present an imposing appearance from town. The main building is 26 feet by 70, in width and length, with a front elevation of 32 feet, surmounted by a cupola or ventilator. There are two wings to the building, that on the east side being 16 by 70 feet, being the boiler house and blacksmith shop; and that on the west side is 16 by 60 feet, in which will be the carpenter shop. The machinery is from the well known Risdon Iron Works, San Francisco, and is a duplicate of the University machinery, and originally intended for the J & K mine. The new works have been erected with an eye to convenience and durability, and will compare favorably with any in the district, and Superintendent Holmes may well be proud of them. The works will probably be in full working order to-day or to-morrow, and with the additional conveniences for working this mine we may look for important developments.

WHERE ARE THEY?—As the Fourth of July approacheth we are led to ask, what has become of the Bodie National Guard that was organized some time ago with such a flourish of trumpets? They elected officers and semed to be in a flourising condition. It strikes us that the young men composing that company are lacking in enterprise or they would now be in good standing in the National Guard of the State, and fully uniformed, and well-drilled, ready to parade on the Fourth. If there are any internal dissensions in the organization, there should be a love feast and the pipe of peace sent round.

SO GLAD. It is so gratifying to learn from our daily papers that the stages are daily bringing to Bodie the "best men," the "most experienced," "energetic," "wholesouled," men in the whole world, and "just the men Bodie is in need of." When will our papers notice the arrivals in our town in a more sensible manner? The parties thus noticed are generally sensible men, and would much prefer to have nothing said of their visit—at least not in such nauseating style as is now current in the "personal" columns of the daily papers of Bodie.

GONE TO SAN FRANCISCO.—William Falvey and James Madden, two of the men recently injured by an explosion in the Bodie mine, arrived in Carson by stage on Monday and left the same evening for San Francisco. Falvey's eyes are both injured, but not beyond recovery. Madden, it is feared, will lose the sight of his left eye entirely. Holland, who was injured at the same time, is getting along as well as can be expected, and is much better this morning.

COUNTY SEAT ITEMS.

[From Bridgeport Union].

TONSORIAL.—Bridgeport can boast of having a barber who was the second one in business in California. Professor Hatfield was in the Mexican war; came to California, landing at San Francisco, February 9. 1849; gave $200 for the lot corner of Kearny and Washington streets, where he opened shop in a tent; sold the lot for $300, and finally drifted into this burgh.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Hammond, Hurley and Post, implicated in the homicide of Dalzell, have been held, by Justice Wilde, to answer on a charge of murder. District Attorney Parker and Deputy George were for the People; and Reddy for defense. This decision is commended by all good citizens.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The County Board of Education met on Wednesday last for the examination of teachers. Present, Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Hetzel, W. T. Elliott and B. R. Foss. There are six applicants—four ladies and two gentlemen. The Board will adjourn to-day.

REPRESENTATIVES.—Bridgeport will be in line at the celebration, on the 4th, at Bodie. Admitting that the marshal, orator, reader, and poet may be the lions of the day, yet they will be overshadowed by Massey's cubs, which will stately walk in line—the observed of all observers. Hands off of Bridgeport.

SCHOOL CENSUS.—Thus far the census for Bridgeport District shows 161 children, 43 under 5 years, and 118 between 5 and 17. Of 124 parents only 18 are of foreign birth. The children are all whites. The Marshal, John F. Byrne, has not finished taking the census.

GRAND JURY.—On Monday a Grand Jury of thirty was drawn by County Clerk Miller, in presence of Judge Wiggin and Deputy Sheriff Viles. Without divulging the names we may say that a Jury from that drawing cannot fail to be a first-rate one.

FOURTH OF JULY.—There will not be a public celebration in Bridgeport, but there will be picnics at Twin Lakes and the "Willows," the latter winding up in the evening with a grand ball.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS. The Board met yesterday, and, without transacting business, adjourned until to-day.

ROUGH.—Batten, Beck and Shannon—all lately married, have been drawn for a Grand Jury, to meet July 6th.

PERSONAL.—After a visit of several weeks at San Francisco, ex-County Clerk Jeffreys and family have returned home.

SONORA ROAD.—The snow on this road is a broken belt of five miles, with a depth of from three to four feet.

BODIE.—Bodie is to have a celebration worthy of the Day and city.

Sitting Bull's son, who has recently been at Fort Beaufort negotiating with General Hazen for the return of the hostiles, who are now on the other side of the line, was persuaded while there to sit for his picture. The young buck was very suspicious that the camera was some kind of an infernal machine, but finally consented on condition that he might sit with his revolver in his hand, and at the first sign of danger shoot the artist. This was putting the shoe on the other foot with a vengeance, but the artist decided to take chances, and a fine cabinet picture was the result.

Highland Mining Camp, in Colorado, has been thrown into great excitement by the arrival of a "genuine female woman," the first that has ever brought civilization to the town. Travel had roughened her complexion, but she was a lovely vision none the less, and with twenty-five pounds of flour on her shoulder, followed her husband, who carried an infant in his arms and a pack of goods on his back. The miners at once called a meeting in honor of the acquisition of a real family, and told the wife to choose the block in town she liked best, and it should be hers, even if buildings were already erected upon it.

GARFIELD'S SURPRISE. During the visit of Governor Foster of Ohio to New York, a few days since, he stated, in the presence of United States Marshal Russel of Texas and others, that when the vote began to roll in for Garfield, at the Chicago Convention, the General was sitting by his side and turned deathly pale. "After recovering from the shock," continued the Governor, "Garfield exclaimed, 'For God's sake, can it be possible that Sherman will think I have proved untrue to him?'"

A Washington special says: Blaine will enter heartily into the campaign, and during the Fall expects to make speeches in California and Oregon, as well as in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio,

It is admitted now that about twelve thousand will count the population of Los Angeles. It has been from seventeen to twenty for the last four, or five years, according to the papers.

PACIFIC COAST KNIGHTS TEMPLARS AND THE TRIENNIAL CONCLAVE.—Arrangements have been made for transportation by rail of Sir Knights to attend the Triennial Conclave of the Grand Encampment of the United States at Chicago, with their families, for $116 and return within ninety days. Sleepers and meals will be extra. A band of music will accompany the Knights. Tickets must be secured from the Committee and endorsed by the Grand Commander. It is expected that the gathering at Chicago will be the largest ever assembled in America on any like occasion, and will number fully 300,000 visitors. After the close of the Grand Conclave, which will be in session four days, viz: August 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th, the Sir Knights will be free to return at once to San Francisco, or spend a month or two elsewhere, as they may see fit, and may return singly or in parties, large or small, at pleasure. Arrangements have been made with the railroads east of Chicago so that Sir Knights who desire to visit the principal Eastern cities after the close of the Grand Conclave can do so at special rates. A Grand Standard for the Grand Commandery has been ordered, and on the eve of departure will be consecrated with imposing and appropriate consecration services. It is very desirable that all who take part in the excursion should meet in San Francisco by the 5th of August, or as soon after as possible. Sir Knights who are not able to get to San Francisco can join the train at any point on the road, they having previously obtained their tickets. No tickets will be sold after 9:30 A. M. August 30th. Each Sir Knight is expected to furnish himself with a fatigue suit of navy blue flannel. Accommodations have been secured in Chicago in the Grand Camp on Lake Front Park for 500 Knights and ladies, where the greatest possible comfort will be realized. An appropriate badge, to be worn on all occasions during the trip, and until the close of the Triennial Conclave, will be furnished to each Sir Knight and lady composing the Pacific coast delegation by the Triennial Committee at Chicago.—S. THE CHRONICLE.

Baby Has Gone to School

The baby has gone to school; ah, me!
What will the mother do,
With never a call to button or pin,
Or tie a little shoe?
How can she keep herself busy all day
With the hindering thing away?

Another basket to fill with lunch,
Another "good-bye" to say,
And the mother stands at the door to see
Her baby march away;
And turns with a sigh that is half relief
And half a something akin to grief.

She thinks of a possible future morn,
When the children, one by one
Will go from their home out in the world
To battle with life alone.
And not even the baby left to cheer
The desolate home of that future year.

She picks up garments here and there,
Thrown down in careless haste,
And tries to think how it would seem
If nothing were displaced
If the house were always as still as this,
How could she bear the loneliness?

DELINQUENT TAXES.

The following is a copy of a law passed by the Legislature and may be of much interest to some of our readers, particularly if they have been so unfortunate as to have their lands sold to the State for taxes:

In all cases where real estate has been sold for delinquent taxes and the State has become the purchaser and has not disposed of the same, the person whose estate has been sold, or his heirs, executors, administrators, or other successors in interest, shall, within one year after the passage of this Act, have the right to redeem such real estate by paying to the County Treasurer of the county wherein the real estate is situated, the amount of taxes due thereon at the time of sale, with interest thereon at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, and also all taxes that were a lein upon siad real estate at the time said taxes became delinquent, and also for each year since the sale for which taxes on said land have not been paid, an amount equal to the percentage of State and County tax for that year upon the value of said real estate assessed for the year of the sale, with interest from the first day of January of each of said years, respectively, at the same rate; and also, all costs and expences, and fifty per cent. penalty, which may have accrued by reason of such delinquency and sale, and the costs and expences of such redemption, as hereinafter specified.

The County Auditor shall, on the application of the person desiring to redeem, make an estimate of the amount to be paid, and shall give him triplicate certificates of the amount, specifying the several amounts thereof, which certificates shall be delivered to the County Treasurer, together with the money, and the County Treasurer shall give triplicate receipts, written or endorsed upon said certificates, to the redemptioner, who shall deliver one of said receipts to the State Controller and one to the County Auditor taking their receipts therefor. The County Treasurer shall settle for moneys so received as for other State and County moneys.

The County Auditor shall be paid by the redemptioner for making out said estimates the sum of two dollars. Upon the payment of the money specified in said certificate and the giving of the receipt aforesaid by the Treasurer, Controller and Auditor, any deed that may have been made to the State shall become null and void, and all right, title and interest acquired by the State under or by virtue of the tax sale shall cease. The receipts of the County Treasurer State Controller and County Auditor may be recorded in the Recorder's office of the county in which said real estate is situated, in the book of deeds, and the record thereof shall have the same effect as that of a deed of reconveyance.

This act shall not apply to school lands, when the full amount of one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre has not been paid to the State.
